80 sec.	Moodle-Transfer (ocampus)	Moodle Transfer is a Moodle instance for the transfer area in the departments. The main target group is external students. The advantage of Moodle Transfer is that you do not need a campus account. Anyone can set up an account here without an FHP account. As a student, you will have less to do with this Moodle instance. I'm only mentioning it here because the short name is very similar to ecampus for Moodle teaching. The Moodle instance Moodle Transfer is also called "ocampus" (with a lower-case initial letter). Maybe this mnemonic will help you: The "o" at the beginning of the name stands for "open". The direct link is: ocampus.fh-potsdam.de If you do use ocampus, please note that the login works differently than on ecampus or exam. There are two different methods of logging in. If you click on the "Campus account" button at the top right here, you can log in with your campus account. Below this you will see a second login option called "Guest account". This is for external guests who have set up an account on ocampus with an external e-mail address.	Image: Moodle Portal, Zoom to the web address of ocampus Mnemonic bridge visualized using speech bubbles Mouse interaction: to Login top right LoginCampus.Account (FHP)Gast-Account Mouse interaction: Click on Login top right Image change: Login interface

10 sec.	Privacy policy and terms of use	When you log in to each Moodle instance for the first time, you must confirm a separate privacy policy and the terms of use. Only then can you use the respective Moodle instance.	Image: Mouse interaction
