Role Description

This is a fantastic opportunity for an enthusiastic and skilled architect intern, who has a love for Architecture, Urban Design, and the Built Environment. You will gain first-hand experience working with the Managing and Associate Directors, in their new Belfast Office, on a wide range of projects from inception, feasibility, scheme design and development through to planning approval and delivery on site. You will experience daily life in a practice and be involved in client facing meetings and presentations and exposed to aspects of starting and running a new practice and be trained in their software systems. This host has experience across multiple sectors and the projects you will be involved in will provide valuable and professional knowledge and skills at the start of your career, in a supportive and friendly environment, and be a great addition to your CV.

Tasks

- Assist with feasibility studies to help assess project viability.
- Support the full development of architectural designs.
- Produce high-quality 2D drawings, 3D models, visualisations and presentation materials.
- Assist in the preparation and submission of planning applications.
- Attend client meetings to develop an understanding of client relationship management.
- Participate in site visits.
- Work collaboratively to understand multidisciplinary project coordination.
- Gain exposure to the day-to-day operation of an architectural practice.

Desired Skills

- Currently studying towards a degree in Architecture or a closely related discipline.
- A genuine enthusiasm for architecture, urban design and the built environment.
- Creative thinker with strong design awareness and an interest in developing innovative, practical and sustainable design solutions.
- Good graphical communication skills.
- Familiarity with architectural software would be advantageous.
- Strong attention to detail and the ability to produce accurate, well-organised work.
- Excellent written and verbal communication skills.
- Proactive, motivated and eager to learn, with good organisational and time management skills and the ability to manage multiple tasks.

The Host Company
